

How We Remember Experience

Explicit Memory

- Narratives and events
- Stories we can recall and tell
- Stored with words, images, and a sense of time

Feeling (Implicit) Memory

- Sensations and emotions
- Reactions we can feel but not tell
- Stored as tension, numbness, fear, collapse, or shame

When something is overwhelming, the body remembers what the mind cannot.